AND RELATED CROSS-CLAIM.

22 The Court recognizes that at least some of the documents and information (“materials”) being sought through discovery in the above-captioned action are, for competitive, commercial, or constitutional reasons, normally kept confidential by the parties. The parties have agreed to be bound by the terms of this Protective Order (“Order”) in this action.

26 ///

28 ///

1           The materials to be exchanged throughout the course of the litigation between the parties 2 may contain trade secret or other confidential research, technical, cost, price, marketing, 3 proprietary, or other commercial information, as is contemplated by Federal Rule of Civil 4 Procedure 26(c)(7). The purpose of this Order is to protect the confidentiality of such materials
 5 as much as practical during the litigation. THEREFORE:

6                                   DURATION

7           Even after the termination in this litigation, the confidentiality obligations imposed by 8 this Order shall remain in effect until the parties agree otherwise in writing or the Court so 9 directs.

10                                  DEFINITIONS

11           1.       The term “Confidential Information” shall mean and include information 12 contained or disclosed in any materials, including documents, portions of documents, answers to 13 interrogatories, responses to requests for admissions, trial testimony, deposition testimony, and 14 transcripts of trial testimony and depositions, including data, summaries, and compilations
 15 derived therefrom that is deemed to be “Confidential” by any party to which it belongs.

16           2.       The term “Materials” shall include, but shall not be limited to: documents; 17 correspondence; memoranda; bulletins; blueprints; specifications; customer lists or other 18 material that identify customers or potential customers; price lists or schedules or other matter 19 identifying pricing; minutes; telegrams; letters; statements; cancelled checks; contracts; invoices; 20 drafts; books of account; worksheets; notes of conversations; desk diaries; appointment books; 21 expense accounts; recordings; photographs; motion pictures; compilations from which 22 information can be obtained and translated into reasonably usable form through detection 23 devices; sketches; drawings; notes (including laboratory notebooks and records); reports; 24 instructions; disclosures; other writings; models and prototypes and other physical objects.

25           3.       The term “Counsel” shall mean outside counsel of record, and other attorneys, 26 paralegals, secretaries, and other support staff employed in the law firms of counsel of record 27 appearing for the parties in the above-captioned matter, respectively.

28       ///

1           b. the disclosing party shall have the right to exclude from attendance at said
2           deposition, during such time as the Confidential Information is to be 3           disclosed, any person other than the deponent, counsel (including their staff 4           and associates), the court reporter, and the person(s) agreed upon pursuant to 5           paragraph 8 below; and

6           a. the originals of said deposition transcripts and all copies thereof shall bear the 7           legend "CONFIDENTIAL," as appropriate.

8           8. All Confidential Information designated as "CONFIDENTIAL" shall not be 9           disclosed by the receiving party to anyone other than those persons designated herein and shall 10          be handled in the manner set forth below and, in any event, shall not be used for any purpose 11          other than in connection with this litigation, unless and until such designation is removed either 12          by agreement of the parties, or by order of the Court.

13          9. Information designated "CONFIDENTIAL" shall be viewed only by counsel (as 14          defined in paragraph 3) of the receiving party, by independent experts or consultants retained for 15          the purposes of this litigation, and by the additional individuals listed below, provided each such 16          individual has read this Order in advance of disclosure and has agreed in writing to be bound by 17          its terms:

18                  a. Directors, officers, and control group management employees of any 19          party;

20                  b. Technical personnel of the parties with whom Counsel for the parties find 21          it necessary to consult, in the discretion of such counsel, in preparation for trial of this action; 22          and

23                  c. Stenographic and clerical employees associated with the individuals 24          identified above.

25          10. With respect to material designated "CONFIDENTIAL," any person indicated on 26          the face of the document to be its originator, author or a recipient of a copy thereof, may be 27          shown the same.

28          ///

1           11. All information which has been designated as “CONFIDENTIAL” by the 2 producing or disclosing party, and any and all reproductions thereof, shall be retained in the 3 custody of the counsel for the receiving party identified in paragraph 3, except that independent 4 experts or consultants authorized to view such information under the terms of this Order may 5 retain custody of copies such as are necessary for their participation in this litigation.

6           12. Designations should not be made if clearly unjustified, or if made for an improper 7 purpose. If it comes to a party’s attention that Confidential Information does not qualify for 8 protection as so designated, that party must promptly withdraw the designation upon request.

9           13. When briefs, memoranda or other documents or things containing Confidential 10 Information are filed with the Court, the filing party shall make every effort to file these 11 documents or things under seal and shall comply with the Court’s requirements for doing so. No 12 document shall be filed under seal unless counsel secures a court order allowing the filing of a 13 document under seal. An application to file a document under seal shall be served on opposing 14 counsel, and on the person or entity that has custody and control of the document, if different 15 from opposing counsel. If opposing counsel, or the person or entity who has custody and control 16 of the document, wishes to oppose the application, he/she must contact the chambers of the judge 17 who will rule on the application, to notify the judge’s staff that an opposition to the application
18 will be filed. If an application to file a document under seal is granted by the Court, a redacted 19 version of the document shall be e-filed. A courtesy copy of the unredacted document shall be 20 delivered to the Court’s chambers.

21           14. At any stage of these proceedings, any party may object to a designation of the 22 materials as Confidential Information. The party objecting to confidentiality shall notify, in 23 writing, counsel for the designating party of the objected-to materials and the grounds for the 24 objection. If the dispute is not resolved consensually between the parties within ten (10) Court
25 days of receipt of such a notice of objections, the parties are to consult and follow Judge
26 Skomal’s Chambers’ Rules regarding discovery disputes, which are available on the Court’s 27 website. The materials at issue shall be treated as Confidential Information, as designated by the 28 designating party, until the Court has ruled on the objection or the matter has been otherwise

1 resolved.

2 15. All Confidential Information shall be held in confidence by those inspecting or 3 receiving it, and shall be used only for purposes of this action. Counsel for each party and each 4 person receiving Confidential Information shall take reasonable precautions to prevent the 5 unauthorized or inadvertent disclosure of such information. If Confidential Information is 6 disclosed to any person other than a person authorized by this Order, the party responsible for the 7 unauthorized disclosure must immediately bring all pertinent facts relating to the unauthorized 8 disclosure to the attention of the other parties and, without prejudice to any rights and remedies 9 of the other parties, make every effort to prevent further disclosure by the party and by the 10 person(s) receiving the unauthorized disclosure.

11 16. No party shall be responsible to another party for disclosure of Confidential
12 Information under this Order if the information in question is not labeled or otherwise identified 13 as such in accordance with this Order, or under any other applicable objection or privilege, 14 unless circumstances exist which ought reasonably have alerted the disclosing party as to the 15 confidential nature of the information in question.

16 17. If a party produces any Confidential Information without labeling or marking or 17 otherwise designating it as such in accordance with this Order, the designating party may give 18 written notice to the receiving party that the document or thing produced is deemed Confidential 19 Information, and that the document or thing produced should be treated as such in accordance 20 with that designation under this Order. The receiving party must treat the materials as 21 confidential, once the designating party so notifies the receiving party. If the receiving party has 22 disclosed the materials before receiving the designation, the receiving party must notify the 23 designating party in writing of each such disclosure. Counsel for the parties shall agree on a 24 mutually acceptable manner of labeling or marking the produced materials as 25 "CONFIDENTIAL."

26 18. Nothing herein shall prejudice the right of any party to object to the production of 27 any discovery material on the grounds that the material is protected as privileged or as attorney 28 work product.

1           19.     Nothing in this Order shall bar counsel from rendering advice to their clients with 2     respect to this litigation and, in the course thereof, relying upon any information designated as 3     Confidential Information, provided that the contents of the information shall not be disclosed.

4           20.     This Order shall be without prejudice to the right of any party to oppose 5     production of any information for lack of relevance or any other ground other than the mere 6     presence of Confidential Information. The existence of this Order shall not be used by either 7     party as a basis for discovery that is otherwise not proper under the Federal Rules of Civil 8     Procedure.

9           21.     If a party or any person who has agreed to be bound by this Order receives a 10    subpoena or order issued by any court or governmental agency requesting production of any 11    writings or other information that another party to this action has designated as Confidential 12    Information under the terms of this Order, the party receiving that subpoena or order shall 13    promptly notify the party who designated the writing or other information as Confidential 14    Information of that subpoena or order. So long as this procedure is followed to the greatest 15    extent possible, nothing herein shall be construed to prevent disclosure of Confidential
16    Information if such disclosure is required by law or by court order.

17          22.     Within sixty (60) calendar days after the final termination of this action, including 18    any and all appeals, counsel for each party shall, upon request of the producing party, return all 19    Confidential Information to the party that produced the information, including any copies, 20    excerpts, and summaries thereof, or shall destroy same at the option of the receiving party, and 21    shall purge all such information from all machine-readable media on which it resides.
22    Notwithstanding the foregoing, counsel for each party may retain all pleadings, briefs,
23    memoranda, motions, and other documents filed with the Court that refer to or incorporate 24    Confidential Information, and will continue to be bound by this Order with respect to all such 25    retained information. Further, attorney work product materials that contain Confidential 26    Information need not be destroyed, but, if they are not destroyed, the person in possession of the 27    attorney work product will continue to be bound by this Order with respect to all such retained 28    information.

23. Confidential Information in the possession, custody, or control of the Court shall be disposed of as follows: within thirty (30) calendar days after the final termination of this action and the expiration of the time for appeal or final determination of any appeal, any party to this action may request the return of the Confidential Information to that party. Any Confidential Information so returned must be treated by the receiving party strictly in accordance with the terms of this Order. To the extent that the parties do not seek the return of Confidential Information as set forth above, and/or within the time set forth above, the Court may destroy of such Confidential Information in any manner it deems proper. Any action by the Court, whether return or destruction of the Confidential and/or sealed material, must be preceded by an ex parte motion for an order authorizing the return of all Confidential Material to the party that produced the information, or the destruction thereof.

24. The restrictions and obligations set forth herein shall not apply to any information that: (a) the parties agree, or the Court rules, should not be designated Confidential Information; (b) the parties agree, or the Court rules, is already public knowledge; (c) the parties agree, or the Court rules, has become public knowledge other than as a result of disclosure by the receiving party, its employees, or its agents in violation of this Order; or (d) has come or shall come into the receiving party's legitimate knowledge independently of the production by the designating party. Prior knowledge must be established by pre-production documentation.

25. The restrictions and obligations herein shall not be deemed to prohibit discussions of any Confidential Information with anyone if that person already has or obtains legitimate possession thereof.

26. Transmission by facsimile or email is acceptable for all notification purposes herein.

27. This Order may be modified only by agreement of the parties, subject to approval by the Court, or by Order of the Court.

1           28. Public policy and other considerations require that the provisions of this 2 Stipulated Protective Order be subject to further Court order. Thus, the Court may modify the 3 terms and conditions of this Order for good cause, or in the interest of justice, or on its own order 4 at any time in these proceedings, and may make any other order it deems appropriate with regard 5 to this Stipulated Protective Order. The parties prefer that this Court provide them with notice of 6 the Court's intent to modify the Order and the content of those modifications, prior to entry of 7 such an order.

8           29. Without separate Court order, this stipulated protective order does not change, 9 amend, or circumvent any Court rule or Local Rule.
